

Invitation for the online workshop

Vaccination justice: There is enough for everyone!

(or: we are only safe, when everyone is safe)

Thursday 22nd of July 2021, 4 pm. to 5.30 pm. MET

The challenge of global vaccination justice is now more urgent than ever. In Europe, more and more people have been fully vaccinated and have started to return to “normal” life. Meanwhile in the countries of the global south, the rates of Covid infections continue to rise and different virus mutations are imposing even bigger threats to the people. Therefore, we cannot neglect the question of how a worldwide distribution of the vaccines and accessibility for everyone can be achieved. Most prominent in this context is the debate about patent rights and whether the patents on vaccines should be opened for countries in the global south. What are the different assessments on this topic and what possible solutions and approaches are proposed?

The workshop will be held in English.

We are looking forward to hearing contributions and discussions from the following speakers:

- Dr. Richard Mihigo, Coordinator at WHO/AFRO
- HU Yuan Qiong, PhD/Kate Stegeman (doctors without borders South Africa)
- Dr. Michael Piontek – manager and founder of ARTES Biotechnology GmbH
- Dr. Paul Marschall / Dr. Christoph Strupat (DIE)
